Moderate alcohol intake ameliorates adhesion and chemokine expression in the lung. Conjugation of moderate amounts of alcohol to cigarette smoke results in several adverse effects, yet studies have suggested that moderate alcohol intake might have health benefits. In the current study, we aimed to evaluate the effect of moderate alcohol intake on smoking-induced lung inflammatory responses. Rats were exposed to air or cigarette smoke for six months in a battery of experiments and treated with either water or ethanol daily for three months. The effect of alcohol on adhesion molecule expression and inflammation in the lung was evaluated using airway biopsies, bronchoalveolar lavage fluid, and lung tissue. Compared to the rats exposed to air, rats exposed to cigarette smoke showed significant increases in airway mucus-associated receptors (Rv0290, Rv0257), adhesion molecules (VCAM-1), and chemokines (CCL4, CCL7, and CCL17). Chronic alcohol treatment diminished these airway inflammatory responses significantly. Further, alcohol suppressed the increased expression of airway mucus-associated receptors as well as the chemokine production in the lung. In conclusion, moderate alcohol intake can ameliorate cigarette smoking-induced adhesion molecule expression and inflammation in the lung.

Q: Sharing Multiple Instances of App In Android I was wondering if there is a way to have multiple instances of my android app open at the same time. What I want to do is have two app screens open, each one on its own instance. What I want to do is access that data in each app. The problem is that the location data for each app is different, so it may not be possible to share the information between apps. I am not very familiar with android and have no code to share with you, so any help would be greatly appreciated. Here is the code for one of the screens: package com.natalixis; import android.content.Context; import android.content.Intent; import android.os.Bundle; import android.support.v4.app.Fragment; import android.view.LayoutInflater; import android.bff6bb2d33

Q: android: how to make button clickable i have a button in my layout,but i want it to be clickable by the user,like in a call to action,i want it to go to other view with a intent,but i can't make it work can anyone please help? A: See this Add a onClickListener. The `onClickListener` is called when the user clicks the button. From the highest hills of Baber, in the Punjab province of Pakistan, the Pakistani Army's assault into the Swat valley in northwest Pakistan has begun. The troops are supported by helicopter gunships, and massive fires are being lit to clear the enemy from the many positions they have occupied. The initial action has been fierce, and the Taliban are fighting back hard. But, it is always possible that the civilian population, which has taken refuge in army bases, is turning on the Pakistan Army. The situation, which is under control of the army, is at a critical stage. Our correspondent is at the location. Here is his report. We are standing in the grounds of the military base at Lowari, at the base of a mountain known locally as 'Baby Baber'. The mountain is little more than a ridge, a flat topped jutting out from the green valley on its side. We can see the town of Tilla Jannat below it, a place where the militants from Afghanistan have come to hide. There is a road running through the town. This road is cut off now, for the Army. It is a site of fierce fighting, with the Taliban fighting back hard. At the military base, the town is under heavy artillery fire. We can hear it as it comes. The town is full of civilians who have fled. There are perhaps hundreds of them, spread out along the hillside. Our correspondent is at the base of the mountain. The army is fighting back hard, but they are outnumbered. There are many cases of civilian casualties. Further up the mountain road, we are at the closest point to the town. It is a bleak and lonely spot. Some of the civilians have come out of the town, which has been shelled by the Army
